

Real Estate and Construction Services

The Power of People

The needs of construction companies are complex as a result of changing regulations, laws that vary by state, and the need for surety bonding. Our Real Estate and Construction Services Team understands the major forces in the real estate and construction industry and has decades of experience working with contractors, subcontractors, developers, builders, investors, building material suppliers, architectural firms, engineering firms, banks and bonding companies throughout the country. So we know the special financial, environmental and operational issues they face, and how to address them. We can present financial information in a way that sureties, banks and other regulatory agencies understand, and conduct engagements that take into account specialized risks, such as contract liabilities, labor availability, and insurance requirements.

KBL has a varied array of industry-specific services to assist construction and real estate entities, including:

- Audit and accounting, including financial reporting, special purpose audits of construction expenditures for projects under development, construction requisitions and change orders, lease audits, CAM revenue reviews, and financial and compliance audits
